

Management

I consider myself to be a fair yet empathetic and supportive manager. I value both productivity and the well-being of my team. I strive to create an environment where everyone's opinions are valued and where they can remain motivated to do the best job they can, in an efficient manner. I believe in setting realistic goals and keeping clear communication within and between different teams. I like to be organised, and to complete tasks ahead of schedule to allow time for adjustments and improvements. I also believe in leading by example, and so I like to assist or take part in any tasks that I can.
